Message from the State Superintendent

In its cultural and ethnic diversity Maryland reflects “America in Miniature.” Marylanders of African, Asian, European, Latino, Native American, and numerous other heritages manifest the multicultural mosaic of our nation. Marylanders from many faiths as well as social and economic backgrounds contribute to the rich human fabric of our state. Just as we in Maryland affirm the democratic values that underlie our shared beliefs, we extol the diversity that characterizes our families, communities, and schools.

A common educational goal across the state is to enhance achievement for all our students and to prepare them for success in today’s global community. Toward accomplishing that end, this directory, Multicultural Connections, has been compiled and updated by the statewide Education That Is Multicultural and Achievement Network and the Maryland State Department of Education. This guide will assist educators in identifying local and national resources to help students develop skills and attitudes that prepare them to live, work, and succeed in our diverse society.

The purpose of this resource directory mirrors the commitment in Maryland to provide all students educational opportunities that are both appropriate and equitable.

Accomplishing this mission is essential to the successful future of our youth, our state, and our nation. As educators, when we prepare students to reach others, we enable them to bridge distances. When we prepare students to know others, we empower them to bridge worlds. When we prepare students to achieve, we enhance their ability to build strong bridges to the future.

Maryland Education That Is Multicultural and Achievement (ETMA) Network 2002

The ETMA Network, as part of the Maryland State Department of Education's (MSDE) Achievement Initiative for Maryland's Minority Students (AIMMS), assists efforts at the local school system and state levels to implement multicultural education programs and policies related to student achievement, curriculum, instruction, school climate, staff development, and instructional resources. Network members represent each of Maryland's 24 school districts as well as MSDE.

Multicultural Connections

Maryland Educational Resource Directory

Introduction

This directory is for use by Maryland educators and community members in identifying and utilizing educational curricular, instructional, and organizational resources to assist students as they prepare for productive lives in our diverse society. The directory has been developed as a part of the implementation of the Maryland Education That Is Multicultural Regulations, adopted by the Maryland State Board of Education in 1994. It was compiled in 1997 by a statewide Education That Is Multicultural Advisory Council comprised of representatives of Maryland's 24 school districts and a Multicultural Task Force within the Maryland State Department of Education, and updated by an Education That Is Multicultural and Achievement Network in 2000 and 2002.

The resources listed in CONNECTIONS are a sampling of the many hundreds of organizations and current sources of information on education that is multicultural and student achievement. With the use of computer technology, the numbers of resources are expanding daily. The directory is intended as a starting point for the continuing exploration of multicultural resources. In addition, since MULTICULTURAL CONNECTIONS focuses only on state and national resources, schools and communities may wish to supplement the directory with their own local resource listings.

Directory Format

The directory is organized by resource topics with individual listings under each topic. The listings within topics are alphabetical, with annotations as appropriate. Resources focus on programs appropriate for grades K-12, rather than on the college or university level, and include areas such as minority student achievement, race, ethnicity, culture, gender, disability, national origin, sexual orientation, and educational equity.

Directory Usage

While primarily intended for use by educators, the directory is also appropriate for use by students and community groups. Specific sections may be duplicated and disseminated throughout a school, while the directory may be kept on file in the school office or media center. It is hoped that the directory will lead to many more CONNECTIONS with education that is multicultural.
